MIGHTY OAK

Nature is like a magical picture that changes with the seasons. Just look at this European oak tree as it sprouts and sheds its leafy coat, giving food, shelter and shade to the creatures that call it home.

SPRING

Watch the great oak burst into life with fresh, green leaves, as the sweet sound of birdsong fills the meadow.

This purple hairstreak caterpillar needs to eat as much as possible before it can become a beautiful butterfly.

Many flowers, like bluebells, pop up in spring because of the warm sunshine. Buzzing honeybees bite a hole in the bottom of the flower to drink the sweet nectar.

The tree attracts lots of bugs, which hungry birds like to eat for lunch! But you won't see this wood warbler. It nests in the long grass, hidden from predators.

One morning, as the snow melted,
life woke again in the forest.

The wind softened, and flecks

"Is Spring round the corner?"

"I think so," smiled Mole.

"Perhaps we should visit Bear's treehouse.
The woods will be full of snowdrops.
Bear loved snowdrops."

Beaver nodded. "Great idea, Mole."

At first, we didn't think much about outside.

We would take the dog for a walk or go to feed the ducks after school.

But it was always
a bit too dirty,

or rainy

or buzzy.

So, we never spent
very long there.

The moonlit forest was silent.

Beaver and Mole gazed out of their treehouse at the starry sky.

"I look forward to this time together each day," Mole smiled.

"Me too," agreed Beaver, as he lit the lanterns, just like their old friend Bear had done.

If you could see laughter
it would look like balloons,
the sort magicians knot in squeaky twists.
Laugh a giraffe.
Guffaw a poodle.

A belly-laugh creates balloons that float.
At the pantomime,
the ceiling of the theatre jostles with colour.
See this baby reaching for the light?
A yellow hiccup of laughter pops out,
floats above us for days.

We could rise off the ground with laughter,
tie strings on it and sail around the world.
