Scamper the dog loves living at the bookshop with Paige. Not just the store, but the whole neighbourhood feels like home. There's Miss Castellano, who lives in the huge house on the corner and is always happy to dog-sit; Mr Ackermann with his delicious homemade treats; and Huan, who gives the best belly rubs.

When Scamper takes a leaf out of his owner's book and starts picking out page-turners for his friends, there's only one problem. What can he choose for Paige, who seems to have read everything imaginable already?

A story about books, belonging and a dogged determination to help others.

- What could be better than books? Except perhaps a fluffy companion while you read ... This winning combination of words and woofs is sure to delight young and old story-lovers alike.
- Claire Shorrock's sweet illustrations are brimming with character.
- A celebration of the power of friendship and how books can bring us together.

About the Author

Harriet Evans works in children's publishing and spends her days researching cool animal facts, imagining awesome adventures and drinking copious amounts of tea.

About the Illustrator

Claire Shorrock is a freelance illustrator and writer who graduated from UWE, Bristol in 2011 with a BA (Hons) in Illustration. In 2011 she won the Bristol Short Story Prize cover competition, as well as Receiving 'Highly Commended' in the Macmillan Prize for her picture book, 'Magnus' (2015). Claire lives in the Forest of Dean with her family and two lively dogs, Marge and Ponyo.

Help! We Need a Story

It's a dull day in the jungle and Artie the macaque's friends are bored, bored, BORED!

But with paper, pens and ink, a splash of inspiration, and a pinch of imagination,

Artie creates something magical ... a book! Filled with hordes of zombie hens, a fire-breathing dragon and robot sharks (yikes!), Artie's newly-created book busts the friends' boredom, and the next day they can't wait to do it all over again.

With a clever book-inside-a-book concept, Help! We Need a Story illustrates the power of imagination and will help to nurture kids' creative sides.

- With an inspiring rhyming text from James Harris, Help! We Need a Story celebrates creativity and the power of imagination.
- With a clever book-inside-a-book concept, this is the perfect tale for book-lovers and any child who enjoys writing their own stories.
- Beautiful, characterful illustrations from Mariajo Ilustrajo (Flooded).

Daphne's mum and stepdad, Anthony, are throwing a family party. It's going to be SO BORING! But when a gorilla knocks on the door, a rhino rolls in and a kangaroo pops up, Daphne realises that this party is going to get ...WILD!

In Daphne's big animal family, everyone is different. But they all love to dance and have fun.

This joyous tale explores themes of belonging in a blended-family environment with a subtle nod to the interconnected animal family we all, as humans, share. In this light, funny read-aloud, children will love the accumulative animal action and will enjoy picking their favourite animal party guest!

- A story that delights in the chaotic antics of a house filled with animal party guests, while also exploring themes of belonging in a blended family environment.
- Illustrator Sam Caldwell's animals are gloriously characterful and engaging – every child will identify with a different animal on the page!

 CBMC Code: A3M79

The sixth book in the internationally bestselling The Lamb Who Came for Dinner series, written by the inimitable Steve Smallman (Poo in the Zoo, The Eyebrows of Doom, The Monkey with the Bright Blue Bottom) and illustrated with warmth by Joëlle Dreidemy.

One day, Dizzy the armadillo lands in Hotpot's picnic with a THUMP! "Do you need a hug?" wonders Hotpot. But Dizzy is a tough armadillo, and he definitely does not need a comforting hug. Yet, when disaster strikes at the Fun Fair, the embrace of a friend could be just what this tough armadillo needs.

- Each of these books challenges a stereotype – here we see that an armadillo who looks tough on the outside can be soft, and more vulnerable, on the inside.
- Existing fans of The Lamb Who Came for Dinner series, and readers of The Lion Inside by Rachel Bright and Jim Field, Weirdo by Zadie Smith, Nick Laird, and Magenta Fox, and The Duck Who Didn't Like Water by Steve Small, will love the adorable addition of Dizzy into Hotpot's comforting woodland world.

About the Author

Steve Smallman worked as a children's book illustrator for 20 years before he decided to 'have a go' at writing his own. Now, over 100 books later, he's still at it!

About the Illustrator

Joëlle Dreidemy was born in Saint-Avoid in France. She gained a diploma in Strasbourg in 2002 and a diploma from the famous Emile Cohl School in Lyon in 2004. Joëlle lives and works in Montpellier, producing illustrations for magazines and children's books.

Agent Harrier: Mission Impossib-hole

Agent Harrier is thrilled to be back for his third secret spy mission, but his excitement is quashed when he discovers HOLES in his precious book.

These aren't just ordinary holes, they're PLOT HOLES, and they transport Agent Harrier to different dimensions - first he finds himself in a fairy tale, then a detective novel, then a sci-fi adventure.

If Agent Harrier doesn't find the hole-making culprit soon, none of his books will make sense and the whole series will be doomed! Luckily, he has a plot-hole expert in the shape of his trusty friend Mole to help him out.

But what if Mole turns out to be ...THE MOLE?!!!!

- With stylish illustrations in a comic-book style, plus plenty of action and cool spy gadgets
- Follows on from This Book Will Self-Destruct and You Only Spy Twice (but can be enjoyed as a stand-alone story), featuring new characters as well as old favourites.
- An individual, bright Pantone ink for each story!

DRAFT MANUSCRIPT

Most towns have a mail person who goes door to door, putting mail through the letter box. It must take ages strolling from one house to another, to another. Then you have to start on a new street and do it all again.

Here in Walsham, the postal worker has EIGHT ARMS that stretch as far as he wants. He delivers the post to eight houses at a time, although he doesn't have complete control over all his arms.

Dreamweavers:

Quest to Save the Spirit World

Meet the ultimate Dream Team!

The Bhoot has succeeded in his plan to merge the spirit world and the human world, and now both are in chaos! Portals have opened everywhere and jinn roam the streets while humans are stuck in a deep sleep. Tito and Neena need to fix barriers between the worlds and to do so they'll have to venture where no human has gone before – into the spirit world. Journeying deep into the unknown, they encounter different jinn and dangers, but will they be able to save the day and wake up the world?

A fun and exciting series, for fans of Laura Ellen Anderson, Star Friends, Peanut Jones and Witch for a Week.

- Spirited, witty and adventurous main characters. Tito is a sensitive and empathetic character, which is celebrated as a strength throughout the series
- A series of creative and engaging adventures, with influences from Pakistani culture
- Packed with illustrations to engage younger readers
- Featuring a Pakistani protagonist and an LGBTQ family, this series has a diverse ensemble cast that readers everywhere can relate to

"I had no idea jinn could even look like that," Neena exclaims.

One of the potato jinn is carrying a little baton and waving it around. We watch as they march up to an elf wandering nearby. A burst of green light zaps from his baton and hits the elf, whose eyes suddenly turn green. It falls into step and the line marches on.

Neena and I shriek, then quickly duck down behind the fence to avoid being seen.

"They turned him into one of the jinn army!" I gasp. "How did they do that?"

"The Darkcaster must have used a spell that means infected jinn can recruit other jinn," Neena says darkly. "It's the quickest way for them to build an army."

We slowly rise up to look over the fence again...

To find the green gaze of the potatoes right on us. Uh-oh.

"We've been spotted. Run!" I shout.

We spring to our feet and sprint away from the school. We keep running, turning off as many roads as possible to make sure the army isn't following us. When my leg muscles are burning and my lungs aching, we finally come to a stop at the end of the high street.

Both Neena and I bend over double, panting.

IN THE CLASSROOM

In Tudor ENGLAND, school days often ran from 7am to 6pm, six days a week with a half-day on Sunday and no more than six weeks of holidays all year!

In ANCIENT ROME, children could be taught by tutors at home, in shops or on street corners. Kids who wanted to be politicians or lawyers had to learn public speaking.

In the 1800s, children in the AMERICAN WEST were educated in one-room school houses. All ages were taught together by a single teacher.

For millennia, the indigenous Andoque children of the COLOMBIAN AMAZON have learned traditional skills, such as fishing, river navigation and gathering food.

ANCIENT CHINESE children studied the philosophy of Confucius. Students could take an exam to become government officials.

The world's earliest evidence of maths, the ruler-like Lebombo bone, was found near ESWATINI. It is over 35,000 years old!

For centuries, upper-class INDIAN boys went to live with a guru (teacher) to learn religion, medicine, astrology and history, and do chores in return.

In 16th-century SOUTH AMERICA, noble Inca children learned how to use coloured, knotted strings called quipu to calculate sums.

DID YOU KNOW? Ancient Egyptians were writing on papyrus at least as far back as 2500BCE.

DID YOU KNOW? For thousands of years, the abacus has been used to calculate sums.
